

College Policy Changes: FEBRUARY 2023

College Policy Manual changes for February 10, 2023

A136 Academic Integrity

Amended Addenda (Nov. 23, 2022)

This policy had a complete review in Fall 2021 which included the implementation of a number of new processes. After a year of these new processes being in place, minor changes have been made following consultation with faculty, academic administration, and the FSU.

Changes relate to minor grammar and department name updates as well as Formal Warnings and the optional consequential actions for the student. The previous version allowed professors to have the option to instruct the student to complete the academic integrity module for a second or third time as the consequential action of a Formal Warning. In this new version of this option is replaced with a mandatory requirement to complete the FOL course called Academic Integrity at Fanshawe College Course which was launched in the fall. This new course is designed to complement the module that most students already complete. The course is longer in duration and covers Academic Integrity topics in depth, gives students a better understanding of the resources available to them across the College, and outlines the consequences of subsequent academic offences. The design and implementation have been structured to yield better results for students and reduce subsequent academic offences.
